Le Futur Antérieur

The future perfect is used to describe an action that will have been completed by a certain time in the future. This tense also expresses predictions or suppositions about what may have happened in the past.

Formation of Le Futur Antérieur

Subject + Auxiliary Verb (Être or Avoir) in Simple Future + Past Participle of the Main Verb + Rest of the Sentence

Avoir as an Auxiliary Verb

Finir - To finish

J'aurai fini	Nous aurons fini
Tu auras fini	Vous aurez fini
Il/Elle/On aura fini	Ils/Elles auront fini

Faire - To do

J'aurai fait	Nous aurons fait
Tu auras fait	Vous aurez fait
Il/Elle/On aura fait	Ils/Elles auront fait

Être as an Auxiliary Verb

Use "être" as auxiliary verb for all movement verbs and pronominal verbs. The past participle agrees to gender and number with the subject.

Arriver - To arrive

Je serai arrivé(e)	Nous serons arrivé(e)s
Tu seras arrivé(e)	Vous serez arrivé(e)(s)
Il/Elle/On sera arrivé(e)(s)	Ils / Elles seront arrivé(e)s

Pronominal Verbs

Je me serai couché(e)	Nous nous serons couché(e)s
Tu te seras couché(e)	Vous vous serez couché(e)(s)
Il/Elle/On se sera couché(e)(s)	Ils / Elles se seront couché(e)s

Usage of Le Futur Antérieur

It is used to describe an action that will take place and will be completed before another future action or some point of time in the future.

I----------I----------I
(Présent) (Futur Antérieur) (Futur)

When they are used together in a sentence:
Futur Antérieur → Action which will finish first, whereas Futur Simple → Action which will happen once the preceding action gets completed in the future.

Français	English
Il sera déjà parti quand son ex-copine arrivera.	He will have already left when his ex-girlfriend arrives.
J'aurai fini le travail quand vous arriverez.	I will have finished the work when you arrive.
Après j'aurai déjeuné, je travaillerai.	After I've eaten, I will start working.

Note: You can only use futur simple for both actions if the two actions continue to happen simultaneously, i.e. the first action won't be totally completed before the second action begins. But if you want to mark one as completing before the other, use futur antérieur.

Français	English
Aussitôt que tu boiras la soupe, tu te sentiras mieux.	As soon as you drink the soup, you will feel better.
Dès que vous appuierez sur le bouton, les bombes détruiront le château.	The moment you press the button, the bombs will destroy the castle.

To Speculate About a Past Action

To make assumptions about things that might have happened in the past. The future perfect can be used to express the probability of a past action.

Français	English
Je ne peux pas trouver mon portable. Je l'aurai laissé dans ma voiture.	I can't find my phone. I probably left it in my car.
Sandrine dort encore. Elle aura trop bu hier soir.	Sandrine is still asleep. She might have drunk too much last night.
Il n'est pas encore arrivé. Il aura oublié notre rendez-vous.	He hasn't arrived yet. He probably forgot our appointment.

To Express A Deadline

In order to express a "deadline", a point in time by which an action will have been completed, we use d'ici + moment in time with futur antérieur.

Français	English
Il sera arrivé à l'aéroport d'ici l'aube.	He will have arrived at the airport by dawn.
Elle aura obtenu son diplôme d'ici la fin de l'année.	She will have obtained her degree by the end of this year.
Ils auront reçu notre invitation d'ici demain.	They will have received our invitation by tomorrow.

Note : We do not use "futur antérieur" when we want to only focus on duration and not the completion. Use d'ici (to focus on the duration).

Français	English
Je dois soumettre mon article d'ici demain à tout prix !	I have to submit my paper by tomorrow at all costs!
Je surveillerai la situation d'ici.	I'll be monitoring the situation from here.

Vous devez trouver un emploi d'ici ma prochaine visite.	You must get a job by my next visit.

Futur Antérieur + “d'ici là”

Use futur antérieur + d’ici là to express the completion of action by then.

Français	English
Ils seront mariés d'ici là.	They'll be married by then.
Il sera sorti d’ici là.	He will have gone out by then.
Des millions seront infectés par le virus d'ici là.	Millions will be infected by the virus by then.

Si + Futur Antérieur

To imply a possibility of completion of some action. Si means whether in this case and does not act as a condition here.

Français	English
Je me demande s’ils auront gagné le match.	I wonder whether they’ll have won the match.
Elle s’inquiète si ses enfants auront mangé le déjeuner à l’heure.	She worries whether her children will have eaten lunch on time.
Je me demande si elle aura signé les papiers du divorce.	I wonder whether she will have signed the divorce papers.

After Conjunctions

To indicate the completion of future actions, use the futur antérieur after conjunctions.

Français	English
après que	after aussitot que	as soon as lorsque	when
quand	when
une fois que	once

Français	English
Après qu'elle aura fini son devoir nous irons à McDonalds.	After she finishes her homework, we will go to McDonalds.
Je regarderai la télé lorsque j'aurai fini mon petit déjeuner.	I will watch T.V when I will have finished my breakfast.
Une fois que tu seras devenue actrice, je prendrai tes photos.	Once you have become an actress, I will take photos of you.

Negation of Futur Antérieur

Regular & Irregular Verbs: We place the ne…pas around the auxiliary verb.

Pronominal Verbs: We place the ne...pas around the reflexive pronoun and auxiliary verb.

Français	English
Je n'aurai pas rigolé.	I won't have laughed.
Nous n'aurons pas déjeuné avant que tu sois arrivé.	We will not have eaten lunch before you arrive.
À ta place elle ne sera pas partie.	In your place she won't have left.
Je ne me serai pas trompé dans mon calcul.	I won't have miscalculated.

Agreement of Past Participle with the Direct Object

When the direct object / direct object pronoun is placed before the auxiliary verb, the past participle agrees with the number and gender of the direct object.

Français	English
Elle aura réparé sa moto. Elle l'aura réparée.	She will have repaired her bike. She will have repaired it.
Ils auront vendu leur maison. Ils l'auront vendue.	They will have sold their house. They will have sold it.
Je n'aurai pas mangé toutes les pommes. Je ne les aurai pas toutes mangées.	I won't have eaten all the apples. I won't have eaten them all.
Elle aura réparé sa moto. Elle l'aura réparée.	She will have repaired her bike. She will have repaired it.
